Managing community relationship

Community relationship

“Because a corporation relies on local governments for construction permits, changes in zoning laws, even tax concessions, a good working relationship with city hall and community groups is important. A vigorous program also helps in the recruitment of employees and gives the company influence in community affairs.” (Wilcox, Ault, and Agee, 1998)

Community relationship

- Generating mutual benefit for organizations and communities

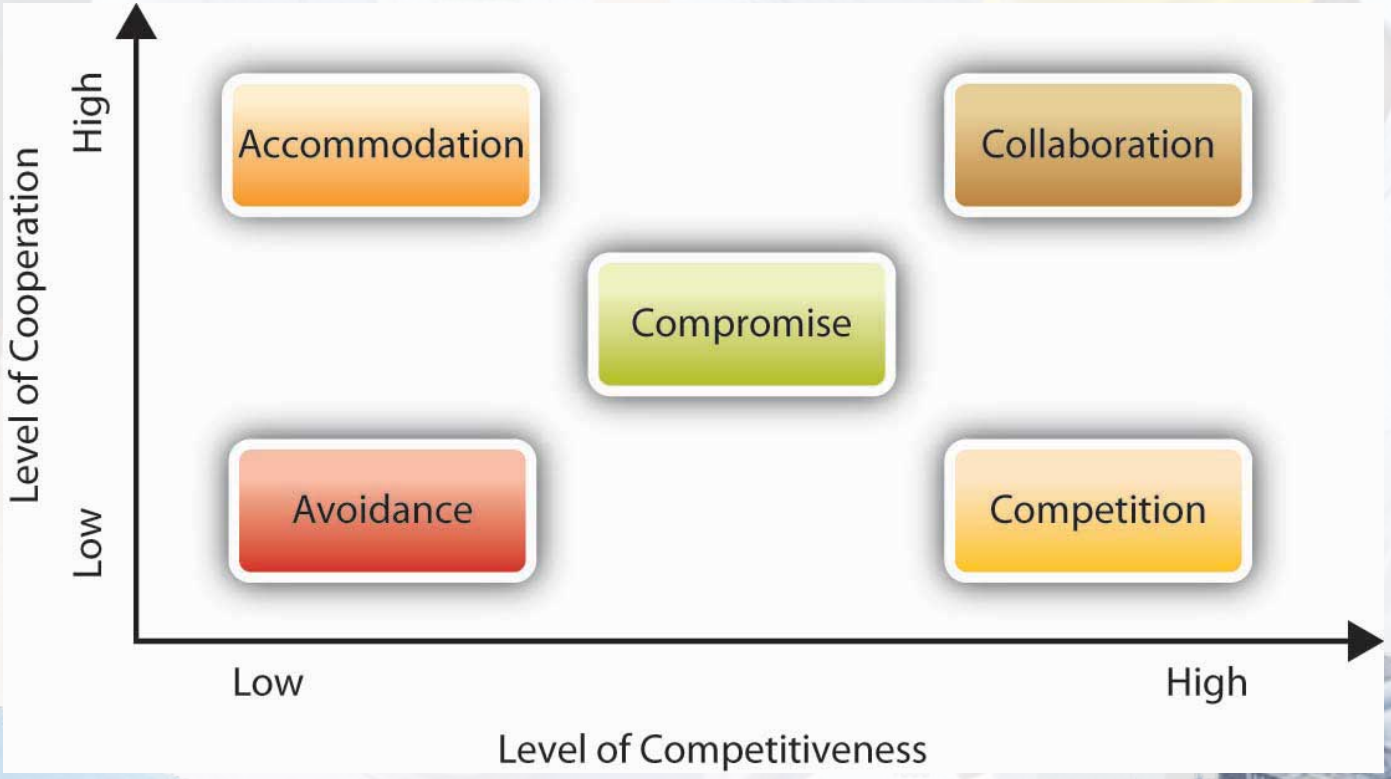

Managing community relationship

- Conflict assessments
- The traditional iron triangle and the forth pillar: people
- Communication and public engagement
- Mediation and dispute resolution tools

Community relationship

- Conflict management

Community relationship

- Activity:
  - Reading
  - Reflection
  - Self-evaluation
  - Discussion and group evaluation

Managing community relationship

- Analyse the situation
- Planning
- Implementation
- Monitoring
- Evaluation

Managing community relationship

- Analyse the situation
- Planning
- Implementation
- Monitoring
- Evaluation

Managing community relationship

- Analyse the situation
- Planning
- Implementation
- Monitoring
- Evaluation

Managing community relationship

- Analyse the situation
- Planning
- Implementation
- Monitoring
- Evaluation

Managing community relationship

- Analyse the situation
- Planning
- Implementation
- Monitoring
- Evaluation

Managing community relationship

- Analyse the situation
- Planning
- Implementation
- Monitoring
- Evaluation

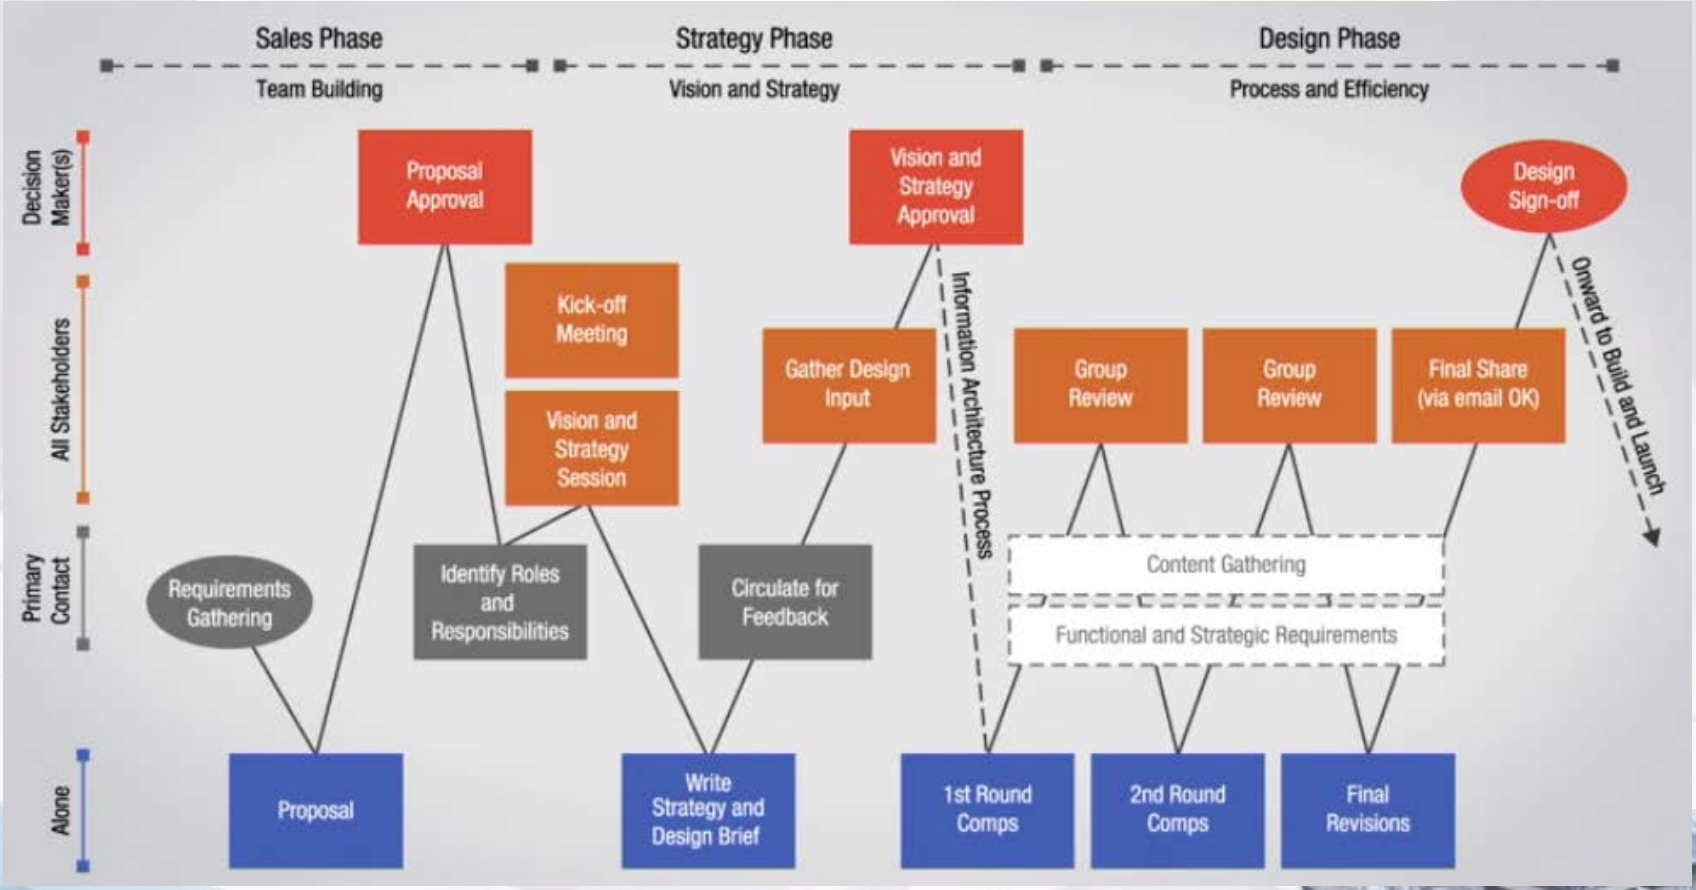

Managing community relationship

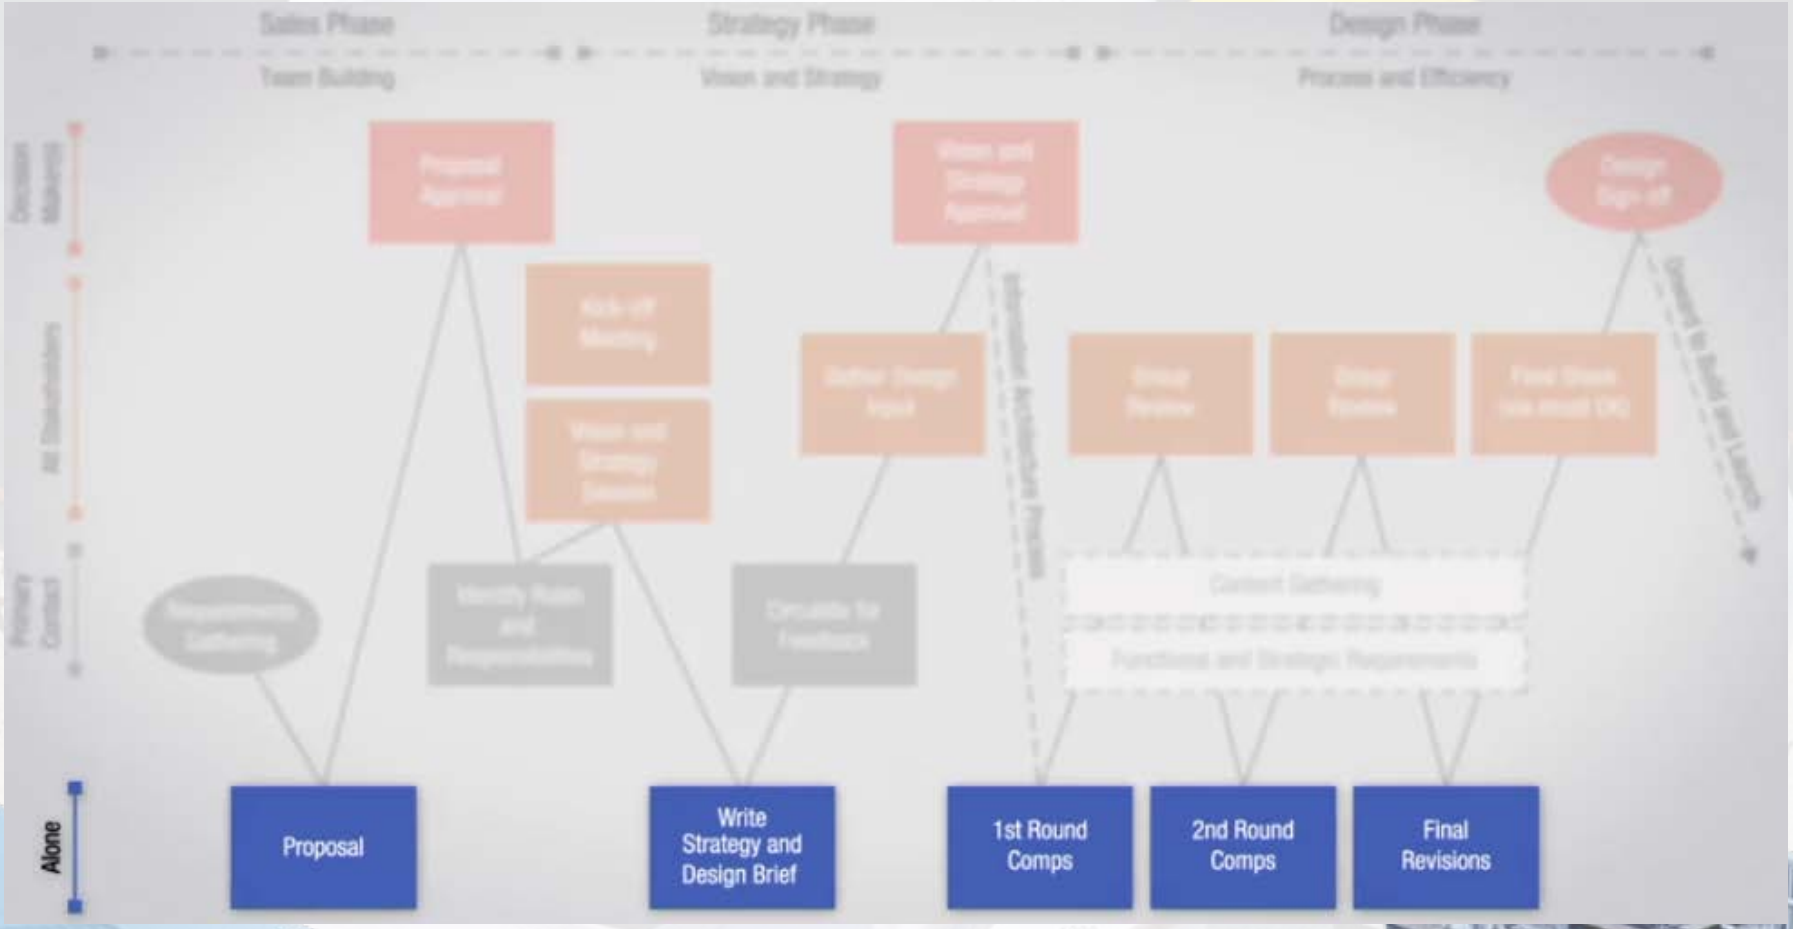

- Analyse the situation
- Planning
- Implementation
- Monitoring
- Evaluation

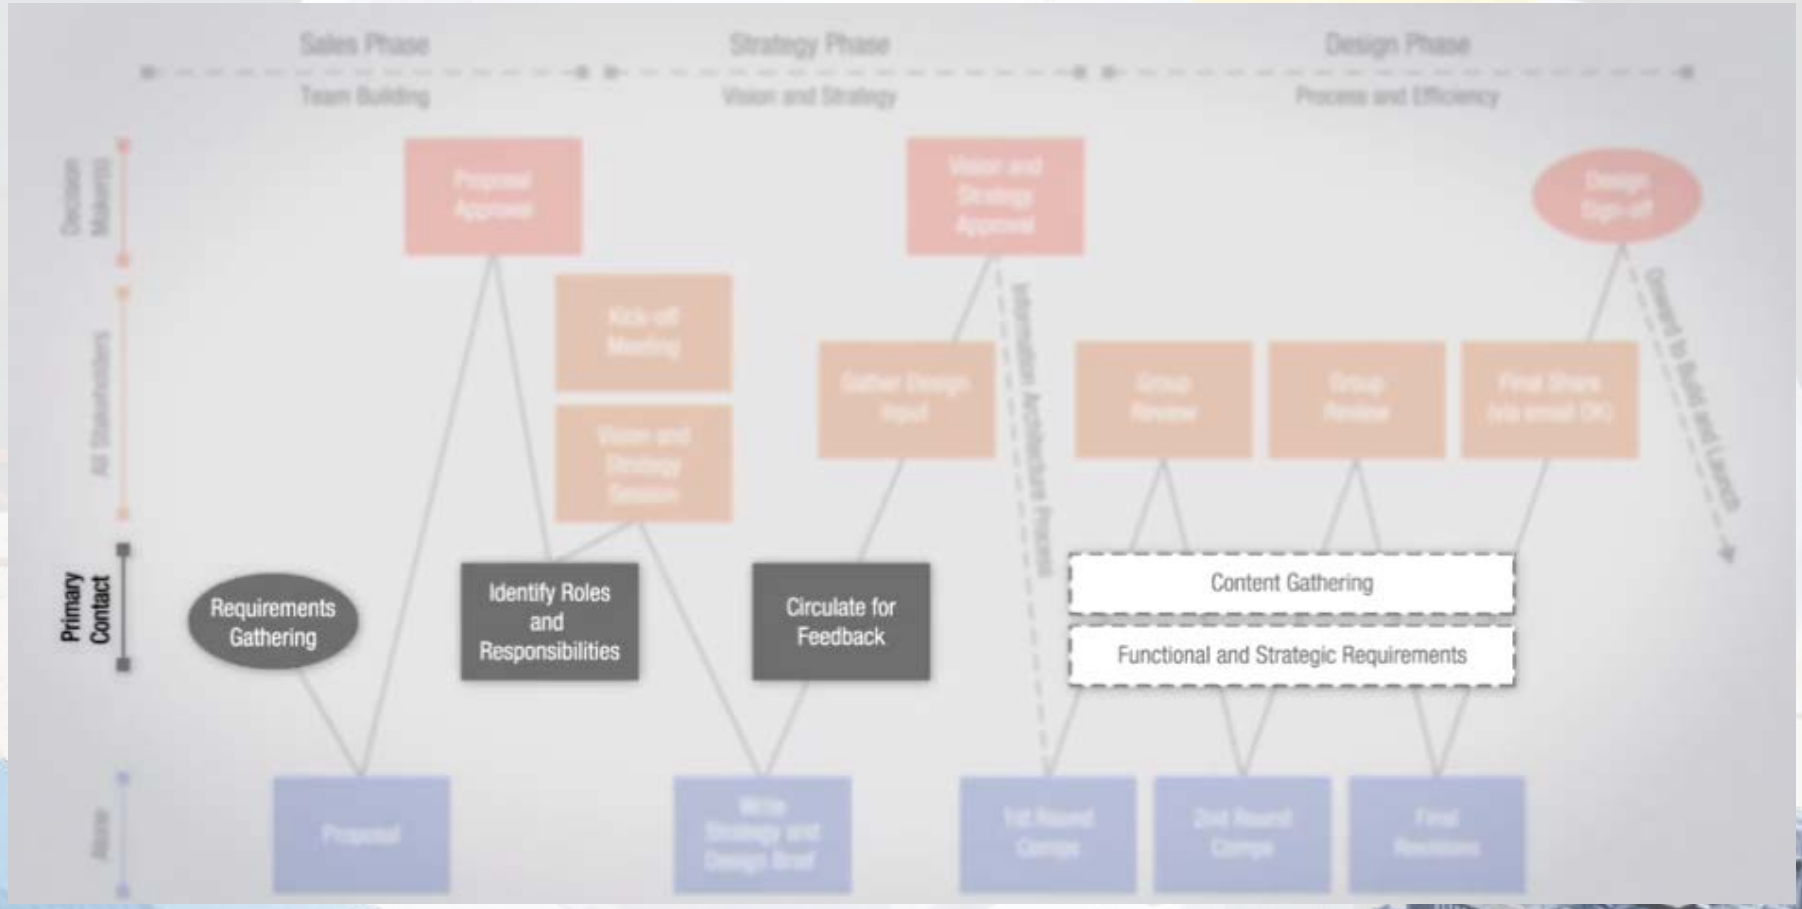

Collaborative design

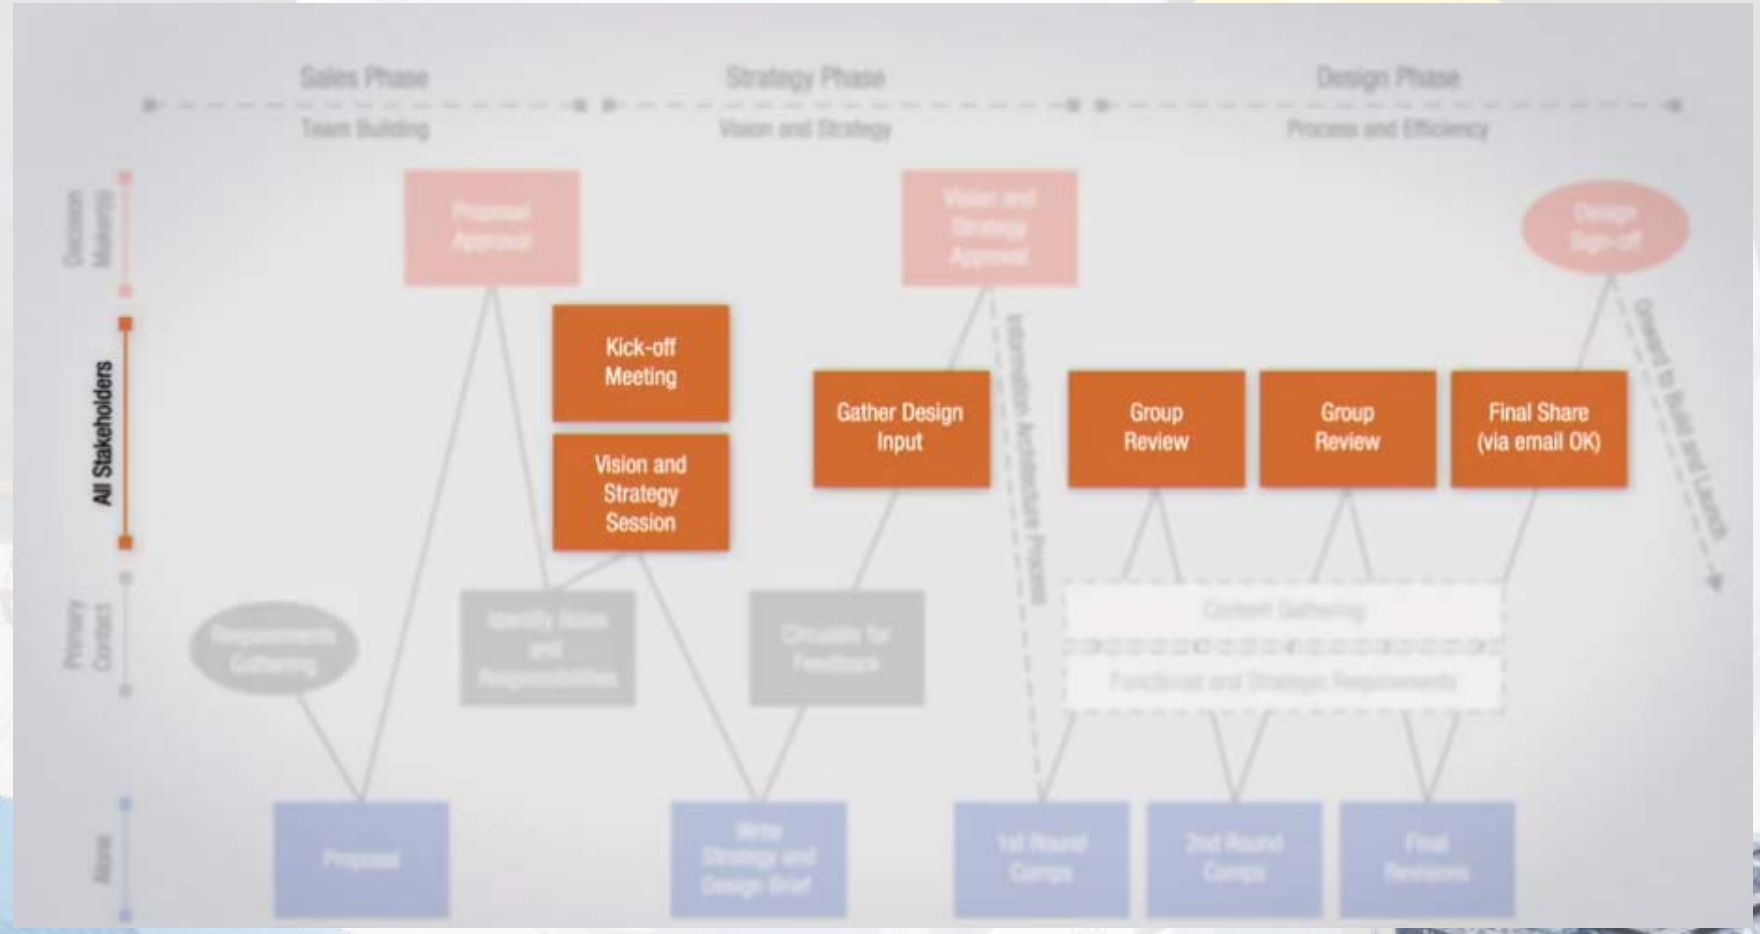

Level 1. Creative team

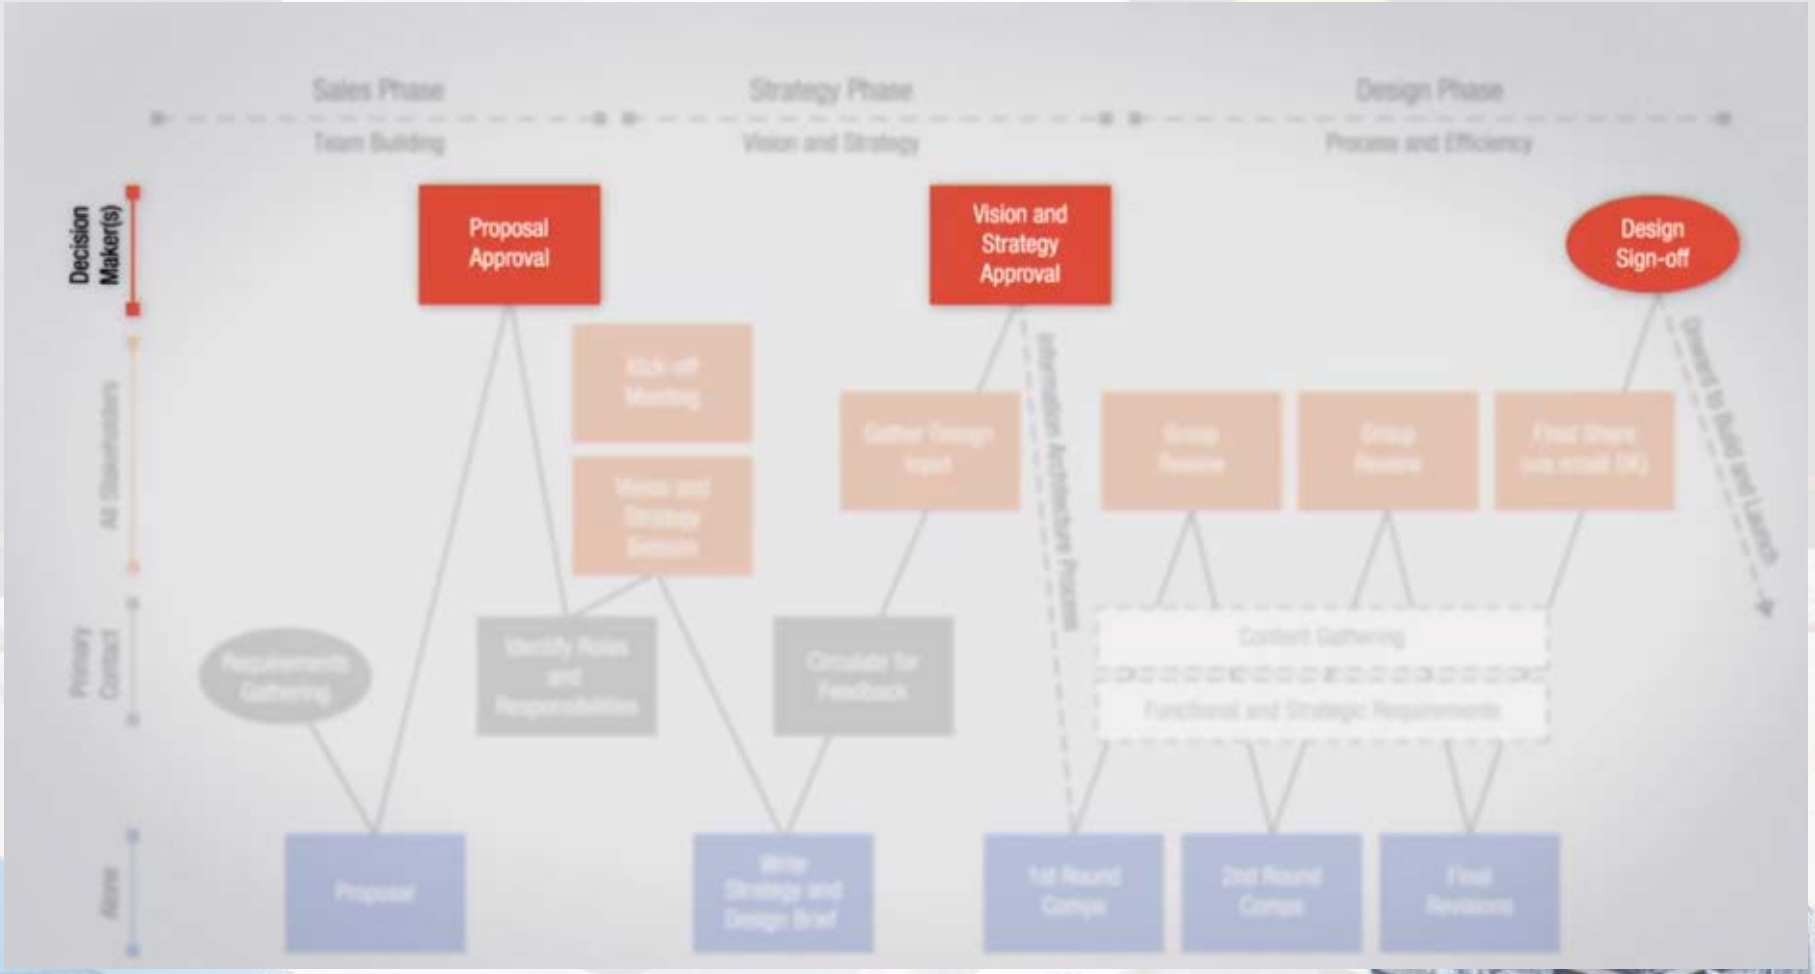

Level 2. Primary contact

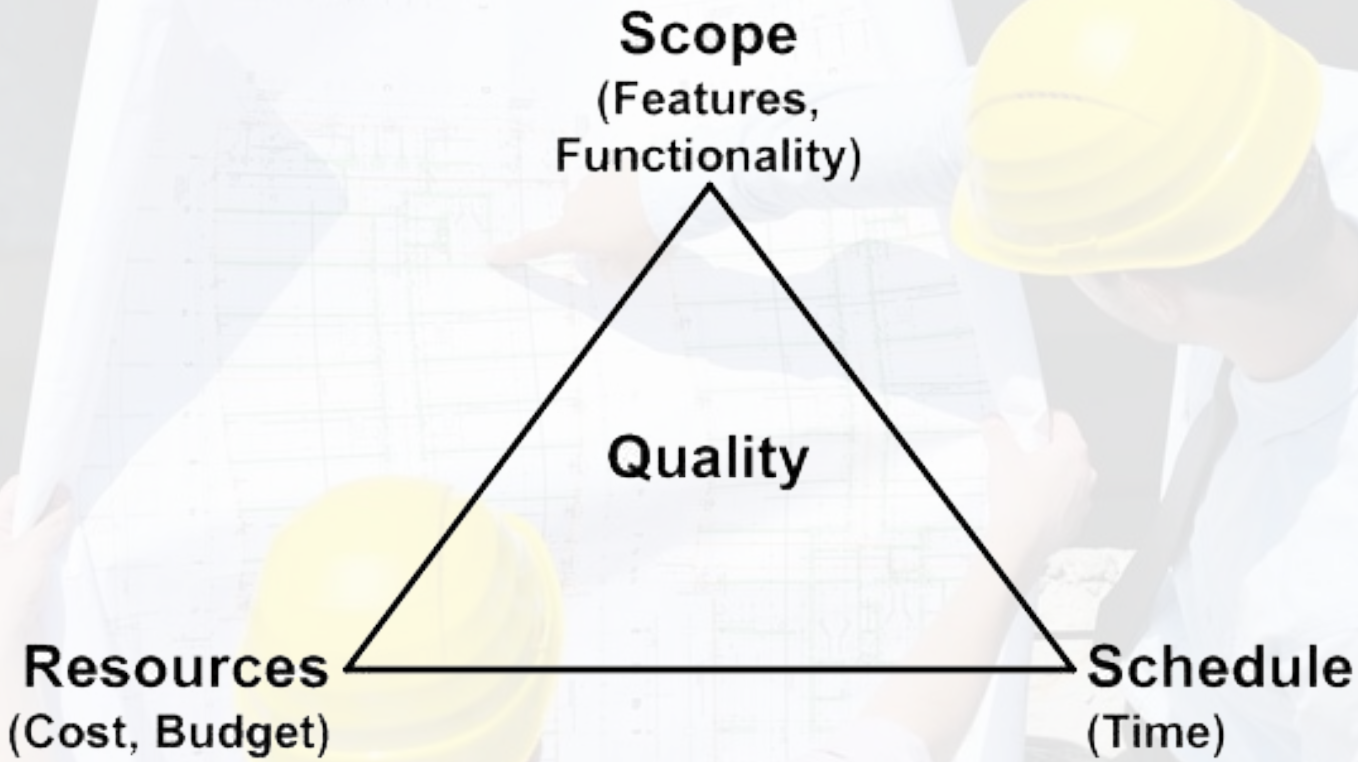

Level 3. Stakeholders

Level 4. Decision maker(s)

NBD1100 BUILT ENVIRONMENT COMMUNICATION AND SKILLS

By Menghi Li

NBD1100 BUILT ENVIRONMENT COMMUNICATION AND SKILLS

By Mengbi Li